Soviets May Move Any Moment, Marshall Feels

ELEVEN-MONTH-OLD BILLY LEVY looks startled but his mother, at left, is happy because his grandmother, right, saved his life yesterday by removing an open pin from his throat as he was choking to death. Mrs. Sam Levy dashed him to two doctors' offices, found them gone, then raced to City Hospital where her mother, Mrs. Edith McClean, was on duty. Mrs. McClean plucked the pin in the nick of time. They are pictured in the Levy home at 312 Summit street.

Reds Repel Attack On Bridgehead

Yanks Battle 6 Hours In Smoke-Screened Chunchon Salient

TOKYO, May 12 — (AP)— American troops battled in vain for six hours today to break up a Red bridgehead bulging out of a smoke-screened enemy buildup area in central Korea.

The bridgehead, three miles wide, is south of the Choyang River, east of Chunchon.

An estimated two Red battalions, firing mortars and automatic weapons, held the bridgehead against a stout attack by U. S. infantrymen with heavy air and artillery support.

The Americans broke contact in mid-afternoon.

Aggressive Allied patrols traded shots with dug-in Reds elsewhere along the central and western fronts.

Chinese Communists coveted their behind-the-front activities with a pall of smoke from fired timber and smudge pots.

United Nations officers said there were indications that the Reds were building for a second spring offensive, expected within the next two weeks.

The locations of the Red-built fires hinted that the next enemy blows would come from points 20 miles northwest and 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

35-Mile Screen

One wall of spreading smoke 35 miles long partly hid Communist troop movements in the mountainous country north of Chunchon. That town is 45 miles northeast of Seoul and eight miles south of Parallel 38. The smoke-screen extended from Kumhwa to Inje, north of the parallel.

It was below this buildup area that the Reds forged their Choyang River bridgehead.

United Nations pilots reported Red soldiers moving south toward Chunchon in pairs, 50 yards apart to make air attack more difficult. The troops were strung out for miles along the North Korean roads.

A front line dispatch said Reds also were reported massing in the Yanggu sector at the east end of the Hwachon reservoir.

U. N. artillery poured explosives into a Red buildup region northeast of Chunchon where an estimated Chinese division was reported.

Reds sent up another smoke pall near Munsan, about 20 miles northwest of Seoul. There the Red concentration was 12 miles south of Parallel 38.

Other Red buildups have been observed between Munsan and Chunchon. They were near Pupyong and Kapyong, 15 to 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

A United Nations officer said

Continuous Buildup In Europe Cited

Repeats, However, He Feels Risk In Far East Greater

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP) Secretary Marshall said today he operates on the assumption Russia "may step into the aggression at any moment" in Western Europe.

At the same time, Marshall repeated to the Senate armed services and foreign relations committee that he feels the risk of provoking Russia to war in the Far East is greater than is the danger in Europe.

The secretary of defense expressed his views at the inquiry into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur by President Truman.

Senator Cain (R-Wash) asked Marshall to state his "fundamental reasons for assuming that an aggression will not take place in Western Europe until we are better prepared to meet it, while seemingly you believe that Russia will enter the Korean conflict if we bomb and destroy military installations possessed by the Red Chinese?"

Cain said he was asking the question because "it has seemed apparent to me for some time that Russia could presently, today defeat any forces which might be opposed to her in Western Europe."

Marshall replied:

"In regard to Western Europe, first I go on the basis myself that Russia may step into the aggression at any moment.

"Also that that is no argument that we do not do our best to prepare for it even though it may take two or three years.

Must Act

"In other words, we don't sit impotent and say Rusia can act at any time and therefore we do nothing. That is the sense of the European situation, and those arguments came up in connection with the rearmament proposals."

Marshall said reports received by this country indicate a continuous Soviet build-up, by rearrangement of her troops in Europe and by increasing her strength in the Far East.

Cain asked Marshall:

"Is there any reason to believe, on the basis of your intelligence reports, that an aggressor is presently threatening to invade Western Europe?"

Marshall replied:

"The impression from the reports that we gather from many sources is there has been a continuous build-up and not necessarily in strength, though it may be, but particularly in arrangements, specifically in the satellite states, and in regard to dispositions of Soviet troops in Western Europe, and as to Soviet increases in strength, as we understand them, in the Far East."

"Is it not generally agreed," asked Cain, "that America and her Western European Allies would become immediately involved in war if an aggressor occupied Berlin or any part of Western Europe by force?"

Marshall: "I would assume so."

Other Highlights

1. Cain asked whether Marshall had withheld any information "because it might seem to reflect upon the Democratic administration in power." Marshall said: "That was not my intention whatever and I don't think I can recall anything I have withheld along that line."

2 Marshall said President Truman's Jan. 13 message to MacArthur was aimed at bringing the Far Eastern commander into "complete understanding" of administration policy and the Korean war. That message stressed

Ike's G.O.P. Chances Said Now Dim

Believe Recent Hearings Hurt General's Appeal

TUSA, Okla., May 12—(AP) Some Republicans contended today the MacArthur episode has raised the chances of General Eisenhower as a candidate for the party's presidential nomination next year.

Democrats, on the other hand, claimed the hearings have hurt the General's appeal.

Democratic City committeemen in 1952 are to meet on a compromise date of the week of July 7—by an 88 to 11 vote of the GOP national committee.

Senator Millikin of Colorado, a member of the group which brought about the meeting, which is scheduled during the Democratic convention week, was reported stumping over a number of states.

A Democratic precinct captain in Senator Millikin's home state suffered a fainting spell brought on by nervous exhaustion, heat and humidity.

Some committeemen generally agreed that the testimony of General MacArthur Pacific commander removed by President Truman, would boost general opposition to the administration in 1952.

Some members said the long term effect of the testimony before the Senate committees has been to focus attention on the gross roots of the country the ability of military leaders to maintain a professional relationship with civilian officials.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who presided over the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees hearings, said MacArthur's testimony had helped the Republican party.

Senator Hickenlooper told reporters he thought the MacArthur testimony had informed the people as to the judgment of military leaders.

Senator Dirksen (R-Ill) said the Republicans in Congress should "stand squarely" with the position of MacArthur's name at a Senate hearing.

The Colorado senator cracked down vigorously on the Truman administration, which he accused of "ignoring and evading our people's clear need for answers to grave questions." He said MacArthur's ouster "will return to haunt" Democrats who showed the "gross arrogance" of which have been passing as "honest goods" on the administration's counters.

Grandmother Knows Best This Time

Saves Life of Grandson Choking on Safety Pin

Mother knows best, the saying is, but it was grandmother's knowing which saved the life of 11-month-old Billy Levy yesterday.

The baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy of 312 Summit street rammed an open safety pin into his mouth yesterday and nearly choked to death before it was extracted by his grandmother, Mrs. Edith McClean, a nurse on duty at City Hospital.

The distraught mother had dashed the baby to two doctors' offices and found them both out, before remembering her mother at the hospital.

"I knew mother would know what to do," she said. "Mother always knows."

Mrs. McClean placed the baby on a table, fished for the pin with her fingers, and when the baby coughed snatched it out without even scratching his throat.

Wedged in Throat

The baby had put the pin in his mouth while at play with a sister in the Levy home. It went in closed end first and wedged in the back of his throat when he tried to swallow.

Hearing him choke, his mother rushed from the kitchen nearby.

She sent her eight-year-old daughter next door to phone a doctor, as their own phone wasn't working.

Seeing her baby gasping for its life she could not wait.

Picking him up she rushed to her car outside and drove first to one doctor's office, found him gone, drove to a second, found none there either, then dashed to the hospital where her mother, a registered nurse was on private duty with a patient.

Baby Was Dying

"I knew I had to do something," Mrs. McClean, who lives with her daughter, said. "It was plain the baby was dying so I did what I could and I'm glad it was enough and in time."

What became of the pin?

Mrs. Levy is making her eight-year old daughter wear it on her dress each day next week to remind her not to let open pins, or closed ones either, within the reach of baby Billy.

Denials By Dawson Irks Fulbright

"That's His Opinion," Senator Says After Hearing on RFC

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP) —Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) and his Senate banking subcommittee stood pat Monday on their charge that White House aide Donald S. Dawson used the political influence of his office to sway Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) loan policies.

Dawson yesterday wound up two days' testimony before the group during which he reportedly denied the charge. He later told reporters the hearing "clearly demonstrates there was no impropriety" in his conduct as confidential advisor to President Truman on the dispensing of government jobs.

Fulbright countered this today in an interview in which he said:

"That's his opinion. Anyone can draw his own conclusions."

Fulbright said the subcommittee would "let stand as its major report" to the Senate the one it issued in February charging Dawson and others formed a clique which exerted improper influence on RFC.

U. S., Britain Agree To Curb Red Trade

Seen in Accord On Jap Peace Treaty, Formosa

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP) —The United States and Britain appear to have ironed out for the time being most of their differences over dealing with Red China, terms of the Japanese peace treaty and Formosa.

Responsible officials said yesterday's statement by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison helped bring the two western powers closer together on these thorny issues than they have been since the Korean fighting started.

Combined with other recent developments, the British foreign policy explanations by Morrison and other government spokesmen were accepted by American diplomats as meaning:

1. Britain is ready now to go along with the American idea of tightening economic pressure against the Chinese Communists and other Soviet bloc countries.

Embargo

The British government on Thursday announced an embargo on further shipments of rubber to Red China this year. Oil shipments have been barred since last July. Agreement is expected on a U.N. embargo on sales of arms.

2. The last major obstacles to agreement on Japanese treaty terms have been removed. American and British officials said differences remain over a proposal of the British commonwealth nations to limit Japanese shipbuilding but they don't look for this to cause delay. Red China will not be consulted in the treaty negotiations as Britain proposed last month.

3. Britain is willing now to postpone indefinitely the question whether Formosa should go to Red China. Morrison told the house of commons that before there is a decision the Korean conflict must end, and the Formosan

Study Defense Against Blast Effect

Another A-Bomb Exploded In AEC Test at Eniwetok

HONOLULU, May 12—(AP)—The United States has exploded another bomb at Eniwetok in the first atomic test emphasizing defense against the A-bomb.

Even the time of the closely-guarded "Operation Greenhouse" explosion was not definitely known. But presumably it took place Monday or Tuesday in the 200-square-mile proving grounds 2,000 miles west of here.

Its force was thrown against structures built at the Eniwetok proving ground to develop information on construction design and materials which best can withstand the A-bomb's destructive power.

Early speculation that the test might involve a hydrogen bomb was discounted. The hydrogen bomb experimentation was believed to be still in the early stages.

Congressman Talks

The first positive word on the latest test came from Rep. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash). He said here that he had attended "a test" at Eniwetok.

A short time later, in Washington, a member of the Senate-House atomic committee, asking to remain anonymous, said "the test has been finished."

This source said May 7 was the target date for the main and final test at Eniwetok. He said the results had not yet been evaluated and he had no immediate information on the exact nature of the test.

The Atomic Energy Commission said only that a "test program is under way" at Eniwetok.

Jackson, just before leaving by plane for San Francisco and Seattle, said he would hold a news conference tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 p.m., Pacific daylight time (3:30 p.m., E.S.T.).

This indicated the Atomic Energy Commission possibly might make an announcement tomorrow.

Makes First Report

The security rule on atomic experiments is that the AEC makes all initial announcements and participants or observers cannot report or discuss beyond the boundaries of the public announcements by the AEC.

Advance reports by the commission clearly indicated that structural defense against a bomb attack would be a key phase of "Operation Greenhouse."

Battle Brews Over Boosting Tobacco Tax

House Committee Searching for New Federal Revenue

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP) —Tobacco smoke curls a big question mark over the next tax-raising decision of the House ways and means committee. The group already has pushed its prospective 1951 tax increases above $5,700,000,000.

The Treasury wants to collect an additional half-billion dollars a year by increasing the tax on cigarettes from 7 cents a package to a dime.

Rep. Robert L. Doughton, the 87-year-old North Carolina Democrat who heads the tax-drafting group, has made it clear he intends to look out for the interests of the tobacco farmers as he has in past years.

There is a group in the committee, however, which insists that the so-called economy brand cigarettes should be exempted from any increase, or at the least be given a tax differential.

Opposes Differential

Doughton firmly opposes the differential idea.

First skirmishes in the tobacco fight broke out yesterday after

Georgia Chief Slays G.I. Prisoners

WARNER-ROBINS, Ga., May 12—(AP)—A Georgia police chief fatally shot two soldier-prisoners last night and today found himself the center of an intense civilian-military inquiry into the killings.

Thomas Bragg, chief of police at Hawkinsville, shot the two privates from Fort Bragg, N. C., last night in the presence of his six-year-old son who had accompanied his father on the 50-mile ride from Hawkinsville to Robins Air Force Base near Macon.

The soldiers—whose names were withheld pending notification of kin—were picked up at Hawkinsville yesterday for investigation of charges of being absent without leave and Bragg was returning them to military control at Robins, the nearest military installation to Hawkinsville.

Bragg told a coroner's jury that he was attacked by his prisoners near Indian Creek, a few miles south of Warner Robins, shot them in self defense and then drove on to Robins where the soldiers were dead on arrival at a base hospital.

Says Soldiers Attacked Him

Bragg said this is what he told the coroner's jury:

"The two soldiers attacked me as I was driving over a narrow bridge. The men, each of good size, crowded against the wheel and forced the car over against a side of the road.

One of the men seized me by the throat and began choking me. He called out to the other, 'Kill him—kill him—kill him.' He said that about a dozen times.

"The other one grabbed my gun. 'This is your last roundup,' he said to me. 'This is the end.'

Somehow, I managed to wrench the gun from his grasp. The men were handcuffed together, but they were all over me.

"I had to shoot in self-defense.

"My boy sat very still on the back seat."

Bragg said he recognized one of the men as a soldier he had taken into custody and turned over to military authorities several months ago.

Self Defense Verdict

Sheriff C. C. Chapman of Houston County said that after the coroner's jury heard Bragg's account of the shooting it returned a verdict that the police chief shot the two soldiers in self defense.

Chapman said the soldiers were unarmed and handcuffed together at the time of the shooting.

The Robins public information office said there were several aspects of the case which were puzzling and were being thoroughly investigated by military and civilian authorities.

One of the circumstances was that the men were handcuffed and unarmed when they were shot in the front seat of Bragg's car. One was shot in the neck, the other in the chest. It also was reported to the P.I.O. that one of the soldiers had a cast on one leg because of a fracture.

One of the soldiers was picked up on an Army circular listing him as A.W.O.L., and, the P.I.O. office said Bragg took the other one with him to Robins when he volunteered that he, too, was A.W.O.L.

Tell Mother I'll Be There

A president goes to church with his mother

The spry little woman of 87 smiled proudly at her neighbors. It was Sunday and she was walking to church with her son. He was President of the United States but she was as proud of him as if he had been a Methodist bishop. Everybody knows that William McKinley was devoted to his mother. Everybody knows that he was a devout Christian, taught a Bible class and was superintendent of a Methodist Sunday School. What everybody does not know is that every day of his mother's life . . . as lawyer, congressman, governor of Ohio and United States President . . . when William McKinley did not see his mother he either wrote or telegraphed her.

In mid-October 1897 McKinley slipped out of the White House and took a train for Canton just to walk to church with his mother. He wanted to walk to church with her like he and his brothers and sisters had when "Mother McKinley" carried her brood to church as soon as they were old enough to toddle.

Nancy Allison McKinley was fond of all her five girls and four boys but she seemed to lean slightly to her husband's namesake. "William is going to be a bishop someday," she once said proudly. But when William became United States President instead it was all right with her. He would conduct himself befitting to the Christian gentleman she had raised, whether he be bishop or president.

When President McKinley's mother became ill in the Winter of 1897 he had her home in Canton connected with the White House by special wire. And he kept a train standing by under full steam 24 hours a day. One night when "Mother McKinley" called for William attendants wired, "Mr. President, we think you had better come." The answer flashed back, "Tell Mother I'll be there."

On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 12, 1897, Nancy McKinley breathed her last in the arms of her 54-year-old son. For fully an hour after she died he didn't move from her bedside.

Less than four years later, while making a speech in Buffalo, McKinley was cut down by a bullet from the gun of anarchist Leon Czolgosz. With no bitterness even for his assassin the dying president said, "God's will be done." Then he called for a hymn his mother had taught him—"Nearer, My God, To Thee." His body was brought back to Canton and laid to rest . . . beside his mother.

Hymn-writer Charles M. Fillmore wrote a song that is said to have been inspired by William McKinley's telegram "TELL MOTHER I'LL BE THERE."

O' Saviour, tell my mother I'll be there.

When I was but a little child how well I recollect
How I would grieve my mother with my folly and neglect;
And now that she has gone to Heaven I miss her tender care,
O, Saviour, tell my mother I'll be there.

Though I was often wayward, she was always kind and good;
So patient, gentle, loving, when I acted rough and rude;
My childhood griefs and trials she would gladly with me share;
Tell mother I'll be there, in answer to her prayer,
This message, Blessed Saviour, to her heart
Tell mother I'll be there, Heaven's joys with her to share;
Yes, tell my darling mother I'll be there.

Pentecost Festival

Pentecost festival, observance of the "birthday of the Christian Church," will be marked at morning services tomorrow, several churches have announced. Known as Whitsunday on the church calendar, it was kept as an early Christian festival to mark receiving "the gift of the Spirit" by Christ's disciples after His ascension. It was designated early as "Whitesunday" because of the white garments worn by many candidates for baptism at this season of the year.

For the observance, there will be a morning sermon in keeping with its special theme at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Also at this service there will be special prayers for Mother's Day.

At Emanuel Lutheran Church, this will be combined with Mother's Day celebration. The Junior and Senior Choirs will sing special anthems.

Communion, baptism of infants and adults, and reception of new members at Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, with a special message by the pastor will mark the special day. Worship service at the Church School hour for adults and young people will be in charge of the Mary Martha Class of which Mrs. Ruth Howard is president and Mrs. William Arndt is teacher.

A special message will be given at St. Paul's English Lutheran Church tomorrow morning for Pentecost Sunday. Pentecost message at Oakland E. U. B. Church will be tomorrow night.

Wesley Methodist Church will combine Pentecost and the Mother's Day observance, with a message at morning worship tieing in both festival celebrations.

New Officers

New officers of the Emmanuel Baptist congregation will be installed in a brief service at the morning worship hour tomorrow. The message will be a portrayal of the "ideal mother, according to God's plan."

In the evening, a farewell service for Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Wickert, missionaries from Havana, Cuba, who have been on furlough here, will be held. They expect to return to their work in the near future. Both will present the need for the Gospel message in Cuba. Miss Mildred Morris, who worked with the Wickerts several months there, will tell of the need in that field as she saw it.

Bible School Planned

Plans are being made by Maranatha Bible Church for the Vacation Bible School in June, and Bible Camp in August, a continuation of the Vacation Bible School work. Our Tribute to Mothers

A Sermonette

By DR. J. B. HOLLOWAY

Pastor of Trinity Baptist Church

"Honor thy father and thy mother." Ex. 10:12.

THERE ARE MANY special days on the civic and religious calendar which call for extraordinary emphasis and make their appeal to groups both large and small over the country; but none is so significant and none so appealing to so many people the world over as "Mother's Day."

It has been said that the tenderest word in our language is "love," the sweetest is "home," but the dearest is "mother." Mother occupies a place in our hearts that is peculiarly her very own, and no one can ever take her place. She presides as the queen in every normal home and reigns upon the throne of our affections.

The true basis on which every real home is established is upon the solid foundation of true love. Man's first home was in the Garden of Eden; his last home is in heaven. God gave to the human race a model home in that first paradise when He created woman to be man's help-mate in the making of a home and He bestowed upon her the high privilege of being the mother of all living. In every generation from the very first man has responded to that divinely given instinct for home making. Whether he has built this shelter for love in a cave, a cabin or a cottage, whether he has built it of logs or bricks or chiseled stone, it is the best thing he has ever done.

IN EVERY NORMAL home there is father and mother and children, but the central figure around whom everything seems to revolve is the mother. The surroundings may change, the furnishings may wear out and have to be replaced; the house may undergo repairs, the location itself may be altered, but mother forever occupies her unique position, she ever reigns supreme upon her throne as queen of the home. The poet, Edgar Guest, has truly said: "It takes a heap o'living in a house to make a home." It takes more than that. It takes a mother's love and watchful care to make a home its divinely appointed place which the Eternal God has planned—a bit of Heaven on earth.

Is there anything in the music of the masters to compare with the laughter of childhood, the happy fellowship of the fireside, tiny children prattling about their mother's knee?

Is there anything in sculpture to match the hearthstone group which is vibrant with life and pulsating with love?

Does not the light of love in a mother's eye with a child upon her knees outrival Raphael's "Sistine Madonna" for tenderness and beauty?

Is there any enactment of Congress or of the Parliaments of the world as far reaching in influence as the "law of love" which is engraved upon the hearts of parents and child where lessons of sobriety and honor are taught?

Is there any soil so fertile or so friendly to the seeds of virtue as that spot of earth we call home?

GREAT MEN of history have attested with one accord that their greatest sources of inspiration have come from their mothers. Was it not Abraham Lincoln who said: "All I am or hope to be I owe to my angel mother"?

Dr. George Lorimer tells the story of one of our most distinguished men who was introduced at a great public gathering as a self-made man and the speaker seemed humbled rather than gratified at receiving that tribute. Later he was asked why, to which he replied: "Well, it set me to thinking that I was not really a self-made man at all." "But did you not begin to work in a store at the age of 10 or 12?", his friend inquired. "Yes," he said, "but it was because my mother thought I ought to have the educating touch of business." He was a great reader, because his mother encouraged him and had him to give an account of each book after he had read it. This great man was noted for his integrity and surely that was his own. "Well, I don't know about that," he replied and then told of putting specked apples at the bottom and the good ones at the top after the manner of some store keepers and his mother checked him with the caution: "Tom, if you do that you will be a cheat"—"And I didn't do it. I don't consider myself a self-made man. I think my mother had a lot to do with shaping my character and usefulness."

None of us can travel down memory's lane and visit in our imagination the many cherished spots we knew so well in childhood without having our mothers coming prominently into view. Their love, patience and constant concern were chief sources of inspiration through childhood, adolescence and into full maturity.

All honor to our mothers on "Mother's Day" and every day.

Confident Living

How To Have Constant Energy

By Norman Vincent Peale

DURING the last war a group of leaders in industry, labor and government held a meeting called the National War Fitness Conference. Its purpose was to study how people could be kept strong and fit for the war effort. The members of this distinguished body finally came to the conclusion that good, sensible recreation was the answer to their problem. So they issued a statement telling people that they should learn how to relax and to play. And they added that the highest form of recreation — hold on now, because this will probably startle you—the highest form of recreation is to go to church.

Dr. Peale

I know the question that may come first to your mind is, "How can going to church be recreation?" And the answer is in how the members of this conference suggested the word recreation be spelled. They urged that a hyphen be inserted after the second letter so that it would read just what it means—"re-creation." They pointed out that, when we were created, we were given all the energy we needed but, by our foolish ways and by our improper thinking, we allow our natural energy to be depleted. Therefore, to get your energy back, you must be "re-created." And the War Fitness Conference said that the best way to do that is to go back to the source of energy, God, put yourself in His hands again, and get back your vitality and power. The church is a storage center of energy.

I HAD TO LEARN this truth for myself one day from a redcap in a Chicago railroad station. I was on my way there by train from New York and I was going to change in Chicago for the west. During the short time between trains, I had a number of important calls to make. The train from New York was late and kept getting later. I had my things all ready and was pacing up and down the aisle, fuming and fretting and getting myself in quite a dither. Finally, the train rolled into the station. Impatiently, I got off and signaled for a porter to carry my two heavy bags.

"Hurry up with those bags," I told him. "I'm in a terrible hurry." I had started off down the platform at high speed when I noticed he wasn't following behind me. I turned impatiently. 'Come on, friend," I said, "It's late. Let's get going."

The redcap just stood there looking at me and then he said, "What're you steaming for, brother? That's no way to make time. You just walk along easly like and I'll coe after. There won't be two minutes between us."

I KNEW HE WAS RIGHT so I slowed down and walked beside his little truck. He turned to me, smiled and said, "I'm living the relaxed life. Take it easy and you can do a lot more in a short time, I always say. Besides, you'll live longer and you won't wear out so quick."

I was pretty humble by this time, so I thanked him and told him that I was a minister and was going to use what he had said in preaching to my congregation. "Do you go to church?" I asked.

"Yes, indeed," he said. "I sure do." Then he finished me off completely with, "I try to practice what I hear there."

He slowed me down, all right, but I was tired before I started. I didn't have the energy I should have had for that day because I had used it up so unwisely. But when the redcap got me back to thinking right, thinking about God's renewable energy, my own energy came back.

As always, the Bible says it better than I can: "Even the youth shall faint and be weary and the young man shall utterly fall, but they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength." God is the source of all energy. Establish contact with him and you shall have it constantly renewed.

Your Good Health

Stubborn Disease To Control

Ulcerative colitis presents one of our unsolved medical problems.

This disorder, which affects the large bowel and, as the name implies, causes the formation of ulcers along its walls, is a mean and stubborn disease. In addition to the bowel symptoms, it causes loss of weight, extreme weakness, and anemia.

As I have said, it is difficult to control. One reason for this is that we do not know its cause. From time to time a great many things have been suspected but definite proof of their actual implication is lacking.

Recently, for instance, a study was made of 173 patients with this condition to test out a wide assortment of causes. A careful investigation was made to determine whether allergy or oversensitivity, dietary deficiency, vitamins and minerals, or infections in the teeth or tonsils might be playing a causative role. In each instance, findings were negative.

With these possible physical factors out of the way, a further investigation was made, this time with the idea of determining the possible role of psychological factors. Each patient's background was thoroughly studied, including the way he reacted to stress and strain, to his work, and how he got along with those in the family circle.

It was found that these patients were of a well-defined type of personality: that they often had been brought up by over-indulgent parents, particularly the mother. In some instances, fathers were found to have been excessively stern. It was also noted that there was a history of colitis in the family in many instances. Simple mental treatment for patients with colitis may, therefore, be of benefit and it is well worth trying. It would appear that such treatment is often successful with young men who have the condition.

Other types of treatment consist in giving a diet which is low in bulky foods, although it is noted that patients who do get a full diet do not seem to be harmed in any way. The sulfonamide drugs and antibiotics may be of benefit in some cases, but do not appear to prevent the recurrence of the condition, though they will clear up the secondary infections which so often make it worse.

When medical treatment fails, surgery may be necessary.

It would appear worth while in all cases of ulcerative colitis that a careful study of the patient's surroundings and mental attitudes be carried out, since often with simple psychological treatment, much benefit may be brought about.

Questions and Answers

M. M.: Do you think ulcers could cause cancer?

Answer: Usually, ulcers do not cause cancer. However, any form of chronic irritation, such as is caused by an ulcer, now and then contributes to the development of a cancerous growth.

OAKLAND W.S.W.S. MEETS

A meeting of the W.S.W.S. of Oakland Evangelical United Brethren Church was held Tuesday night in the church parish house, with Mrs. Martha Vermillion, president, in charge. A song by the group opened the meeting and prayers of dedication were given by several members. Mrs. George Leedom conducted devotions and gave a reading, "A Church Woman," and Mrs. J. R. Dallas offered prayer. In the business session, reports of committees were given, an offering was taken to go toward helping to rebuild a parsonage in Japan, and plans were made to send another delegate to a convention in June at Vermilion to represent the Guild. Plans were made for a mother-daughter banquet to be held May 22 at the parish house. Special prayers were offered by six members in behalf of the youth and the boys in the armed forces. Mrs J. R. Dallas read excerpts from a letter written by Martha Miller, a missionary in Japan. Mrs. Vermillion closed the meeting with prayer. The next meeting will be June 14 in the parish house.

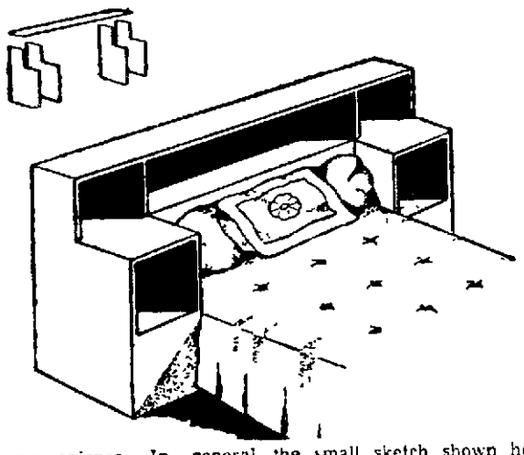
Decorative Headboard Easy To Make

Few items of furniture add so great an air of luxury to a bedroom as a decorative headboard for the bed, and still fewer offer as much convenience. In general, these headboards are priced in proportion, but they can be made by anyone capable of doing the most elementary kind of carpenter work.



Like a great many other things that look complicated and difficult these headboards are very simple in reality. One glance at the small sketch shown here is enough to show that once you have the four chan-shaped pieces and the top shelf cut, the job is more than half done.

The actual proceoure for making a headboard starts with the use of one-half inch plywood of the common stock variety. The first essential measurement is the width and height of the bed you want to embellish with the headboard. The second dimensions consist of your own ideas regarding the sizes and width of the shelves and compartments.

Having determined these dimensions, you cut four shapes as shown, a top shelf as shown, and the complete back which is cut out of a single sheet. The four shaped pieces are then nailed to the back and the top shelf nailed down into the back and top edge of the shapes. From here on the job consists of fitting in the shelves and fronts, and sanding down all corners and joints to a smooth finish No moldings or other ornamentation is used in making one of these assemblies.

When it comes to painting the headboard, the best scheme is to follow as closely as possible the color of the other furniture in the room, if it is painted or enameled. If it is natural color, the plywood is stained accordingly. Excellent decorative effects are secured by bright, contrasting colors on the sides and backs of the compartments.

As there is not a single curve, miter or other complicated piece of cutting to be done in connection with this work, it can be cut, nailed together and sanded complete in one full day.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

A FROSTY ATTIC

Q.: We bought a new house and every winter the inside of our attic becomes covered with frost, and in warmer weather it melts causing water to leak through the attic floor. Spoke to the contractor and he said to leave the window open all winter, but this does not help. Can you suggest a remedy?

A.: Lack of sufficient ventilation in the attic is undoubtedly the cause of your trouble. There should be at least two ventilating louvres installed at opposite ends of the attic and they should be placed at the highest points of each gable. At least one square foot of louvre opening should be allowed for each three hundred square feet or horizontal attic floor space. If this does not entirely correct the condition, it will probably be necessary to cover the ceiling under the attic with two coats of aluminum paint or with an oilcloth type of wall covering. Either of these can then be finished with paint or wallpaper. This treatment minimizes the penetration of vapor into the attic from the rooms below.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

(Second of Two Articles on Heating Plants)

[illegible] pieces of upstairs furniture. And the results of the picture is that it's real not reserved for millionaires but something almost [illegible] homeowner can go in for.

You don't have to build a new house to get modern heating. Many plants are designed for economical installation in existing houses on the 10 percent down FHA monthly payment plan if you want it.

And it's about time. Census figures show that in spite of the millions of houses that have been built in the past generation the majority of homes in this country still lack central heating.

You can't blame industry for that. If you want modern heating in the old manse today you can choose from a wide variety of systems any of which cost far less in proportion to what Grandpa paid for the massive encased boiler he installed in his cellar.

You can install floor furnaces, wall heaters, high velocity warm air circulators with hose-like ducts that slip through the walls, radiant baseboards, or electrically heated wall panels among many efficient and economical systems.

The floor furnace and its cousin the wall heater were originally introduced in the southwest and south, where comparatively few houses had basements and therefore no space for conventional furnaces. Because of their compactness and economy both of these heaters have won wide acceptance in small houses throughout northern states and Canada since the war. Sheldon Coleman of the Coleman Co. Wichita, Kans. largest producer of such equipment estimates that more than 2,000,000 houses now have floor furnaces and more than a third of that number are in the cold weather states.

Floor Furnaces

Coleman says the heating industry produced 680,000 floor furnaces and wall heaters last year alone.

The usual floor furnace is shaped like a box, about two feet wide, three feet long and two to three feet deep. It fits under the floor, suspended from the joists in crawl space or basement. Shallow models have been designed for lowlands permitting water to rise within 19 inches of the floor level without interfering with operation.

Different types are designed for either oil or any kind of gas—natural, mixed manufactured or bottled gas. They range from under $100 to about $185 without installation—the latter varying according to localities, but averaging about $50.

Wall heaters as their name implies fit into the wall in a cutout between studs. They can be used to heat one room, or rooms on each side of the wall. Most of them burn gas and have a vent to be connected with chimney flue or vertical vent pipe concealed in the wall.

Natural circulation is relied on in many installations but forced circulation is possible with the use of a small fan in the wall near the ceiling to push warm air into an adjoining room.

In areas having low-cost electric power, radiant glass panels in walls are popular. The glass is opaque, corrugated form diffuses rays in a wide range from the heating element.

The American Public Health Association in a recent report on healthful housing standards pointed out that rooms heated by wall panels can be comfortable in temperatures two to three degrees lower than rooms with cooler wall surfaces. The same report found baseboard radiation attracting wide attention.

Baseboard Radiation

Baseboard radiation is usually supplied by circulating hot water or vapor-vacuum steam. Two forms of baseboard units are used—one solid for radiant heat only and the other with slots along the bottom and top for a combination of radiation and convection (circulating warm air).

The soundest policy in planning any heating installation is to consult your local heating contractors. They are experienced with types of heating systems best suited for the climate. They can figure the amount of radiation you will need for the size of room, amount of window space and type of construction.

If for any reason you need more information and have decided on the type of heating you would like to to have, you can obtain manufacturers' literature by writing to the Architects' Samples Corp., 101 Park Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. But you'll have to specify the type of system in which you are interested — radiant, warm-air, etc. You can't expect help on a blanket request for 'all the information you have on heating.'

Exchange Club Holds Dinner

Approximately 40 members and guests attended an Exchange Club dinner held Thursday night at the YMCA. The dinner was given in appreciation to all the Marion merchants who were exhibitors at the Marion Better Home and Living Show, sponsored by the club on April 1, 2, 3 and 4 at the Coliseum.

The meeting was in charge of Marion Brown, president, who announced an Armed Forces Day banquet May 17. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the club.

Frank Phillips was program chairman for the evening and introduced Harold Graham of Springfield, director of the Home Show. During his discussion of the success of the show, Mr. Graham conducted an open forum in which the merchants presented their problems in the show.

John Salisbury, acting chairman of the Home Show, expressed his appreciation to all members of the club and the merchants for their cooperation.

The January Messages

By David Lawrence

Time Lapse Accounts for Confusion on Testimony

WASHINGTON

TEN DAYS to two weeks elapsed between the receipt by General MacArthur or two important messages from Washington—one dated Jan 12 and the other Jan. 13—and this accounts in part for the misleading nature of some of the headlines in the last 24 hours as well as some of the testimony just given at the Senate hearings.

The Jan 12 message came to General MacArthur at Tokyo by mail. It outlined the four recommendations of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff that were made public last week. Contrary to the erroneous impression given in many news dispatches and in part by Secretary Marshall himself, the four recommendations were not based altogether on the assumption that our forces in Korea would be evacuated. The recommendations stated that a naval blockade was to be imposed "as soon as our position in Korea was stabilized or when we have evacuated Korea." The other three recommendations used the language "prepare now "and "remove" now" and referred not only to the use of Nationalist troops but to the removal of restrictions against air reconnaissance of China coastal areas and Manchuria.

LAWRENCE

WHEN GENERAL MacArthur got that message of Jan. 12 late in January, he had already exchanged on Jan. 13 messages with President Truman concerning the all-important problem of evacuation. The U.N. troops were hard pressed The President specifically said his message was not a "directive" but was sent for information purposes. It outlined the difficulties and declared that resistance should be maintained. It came in answer to a request from General MacArthur for instructions.

When the message came, Generals Collins and Vandenberg of the Joint Chiefs were in Tokyo conferring with General MacArthur and the senior members of his staff. Two views developed in the discussion as to what the President's message meant. One which was held by General MacArthur, was that evacuation was not to be ordered. This view was shared by General Vandenberg. But General Collins is reported to have expressed the opinion that the President meant for U.N. forces to hold on for a brief period and then withdraw under enemy pressure.

THE MESSAGE indicated that, if U. N. troops were driven back to the beachhead and did not voluntarily withdraw, it would serve a good political purpose, the presumtion being that America could then make effective representations to the U.N. members about the importance of carrying out subsequent measures in other areas.

General MacArthur, however, interpreted the message to mean that there would be no evacuation whatsoever, and he told his colleagues that, unless instructed otherwise, that would be his course. At no time did General MacArthur advise evacuation—in fact, he stated vehemently his views against it and pointed out that such a step might imperil the security of Japan.

It is, therefore, incorrect to give the impression, as so many newspaper dispatches did, that the Jan. 13 message was a clarification of the Jan. 12 message or that it was intended as a modification of the military policy previously laid down in the 16 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs, four of which were revealed by General MacArthur in his address to Congress.

THE WHOLE POINT surrounding the Jan. 12 message is that the administration apparently challenged General MacArthur's statement in his address to Congress that his views on the four main points had been shared in the past by the Joint Chiefs. Nothing in the record to date contradicts the truth of the general's assertion.

In fact, the Jan. 13 message from President Truman told General MacArthur that "the entire nation is grateful for your leadership." Ten days later when the Jan. 12 message arrived, the issue of evacuation had been settled and it had been agreed that U. N. forces would stay in Korea. So the general interpreted the Jan. 12 recommendations as still the view of the Joint Chiefs.

The whole episode illustrates once more the bad liaison between Washington and Tokyo, which is reminiscent of what happened just before Pearl Harbor was attacked. Certainly there is still a lack of coordination, and apparently the top officials do not know what the officers lower down are doing about delivering messages to important commanders in the field. A serious catastrophe resulted in 1941 from this kind of confusing setup and apparently it has not been cured yet.

Helpful Hints

By TRUMAN TWILL

As an accident-scarred authority on power mowers, I shudder at the thought of these lethal devices being sold to other lint-heads who will be mutilated and debilitated through their own ignorance. A few hints may save some frantic trips to the nearest hospital

Hint 1. A power mower cuts grass. It also cuts off puppy tails, toes, finger ends and, in the case of a mower powered by electricity, the cord that supplies the current

Hint 2 A power mower is machinery It has bolts, adjustments, belts, chains and mysterious inner workings. Men work a lifetime to understand such things and still get baffled. Don't give up

Hint 3 A power mower with a gasoline engine generates a large amount of heat. One of the places that gets hot is the exhaust pipe Never grab a power mower by the exhaust pipe without spitting on it first.

Hint 4 It says in the blurb that a power mower will save energy. It all depends on what kind of energy. It takes more energy to crank a balky one than would be required to cut an acre of high grass with a hand mower. Do not be disappointed.

Hint 5. A power mower zips along like crazy when it's going good. It zips through a flower bed the same as it zips through grass. Get braced for a series of embarrassing little mishaps.

Hint 6. Because a power mower practically runs itself when it is running, this presents a strong temptation to pursue it while the pursuing is good. Do not underestimate that all-gone feeling which follows brisk pursuit continued over too long a period without rest.

Hint 7. Also do not underestimate a substantial increase in the use of soap once a power mower is acquired. It requires repeated dosages of grease, graphite, oil and fuel. You cannot play with a power mower without getting some on you.

Hint 8. Power mowers operate at high speed. They digest or ingest everything within reach, including bones, bits of wire, stones, cans, broken glass, rope and other assorted litter. Before mowing, the lawn it is advisable to spend an hour beforehand picking up foreign objects.

Hint 9. For men only. Women can be persuaded that running a power mower is neither beneath their dignity nor beyond their strength, if the right psychology is used.

Hint 10. For women only. Men can be coerced into keeping the grass cut if it is pointed out to them firmly that they now have all the advantages of labor-saving housekeeping — no more excuse for putting off a disagreeable job.

Hint 11. The grass that grows in the spring will slow down by midsummer when the novelty has worn off the new gadget and it is just one more implement to perform one more chore. Keep the faith.

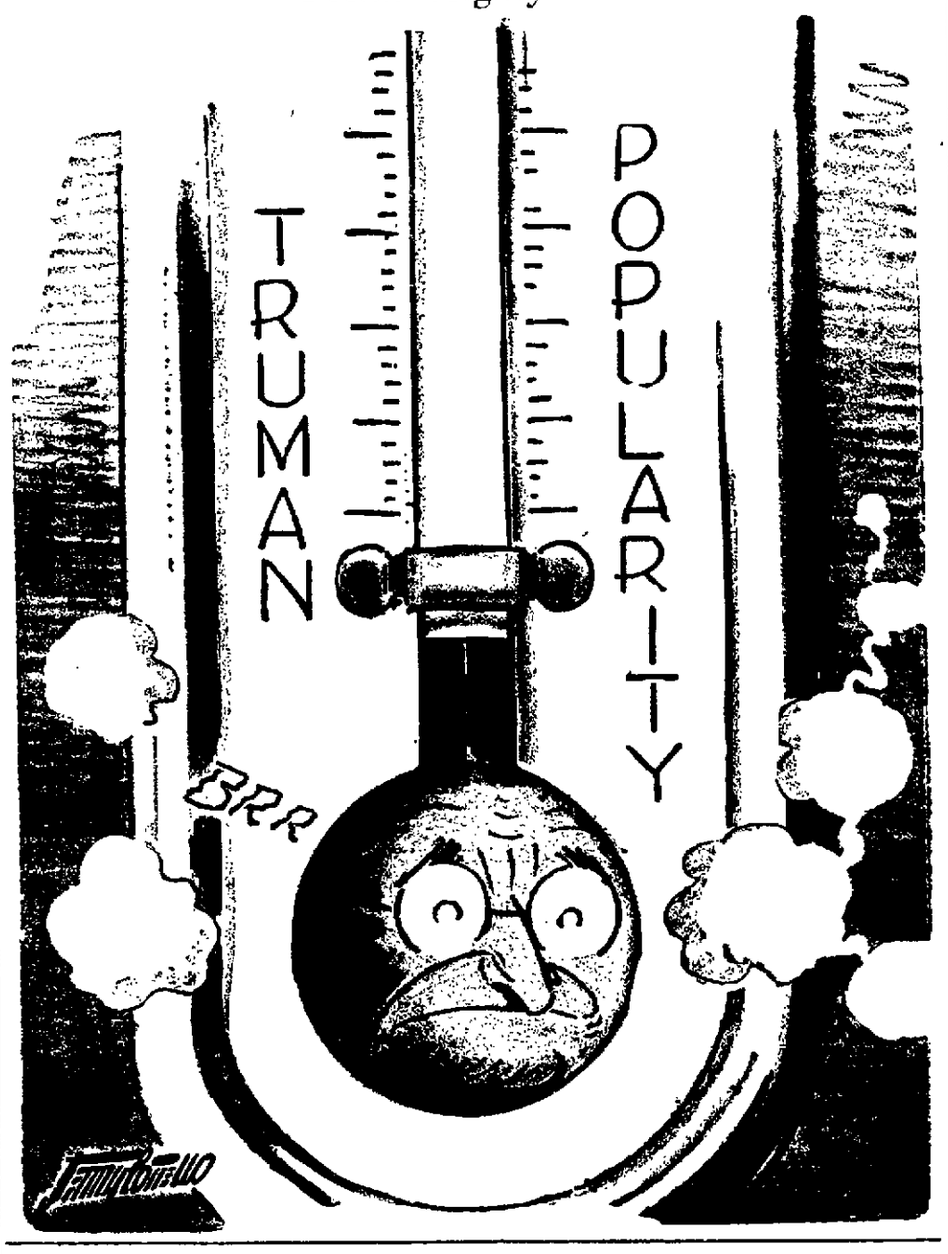
Feelin' Mighty Low



Greatest Gift to Mother—You

By Frank Tripp

MOTHER'S DAY stands among all of the special days of the calendar as the one which every human can hallow and observe; without disagreement racially, politically or religiously. Yet there are people who ignore it, who ignore their mother.

Mother is a universal institution. No one anywhere could have come into existence without a mother. Many of us would not have survived but for mother. Most of us would not have been what we are but for mother. Others would have been better men if they had heeded mother.

No man can repay the debt he owes the woman who brought him into the world, nursed him, watched over him, reared him and never ceased to love and protect him. When all the world deserts us, mother is our haven and retreat:

Great men like Lincoln humbly say, "All that I am I owe to my mother." Thoughtful men trek back to mother's side at every chance. Troubled men seek mother's knee again to pray as she taught them. Hunted men sneak to mother's house to hide Because mother is the eternal friend.

THE WORD MOTHER is the grandest word we speak and the woman who bears it possesses something no other being knows—the true meaning of love. No sacrifice is too great, no task too tiring, no disappointment or grief for our acts severe enough to turn mother against us.

Yet we abuse mother. We impose upon her, we wet her cheeks with tears for our thoughtlessness. We wring her heart with our neglect. For most of all mother wants us—to be with us.

Mother knows, as no one else, that time must come when she must part with her greatest joy in life, her children. She is proud to see them go forth to lives of their own, to be mothers and fathers themselves; to assume in their turn the estate of parenthood.

Still never does mother truly give us up or think of us as aught but children. No matter how old, how famed, how low we get, mother's thoughts of us are of our childhood, of our pranks, our curls, our dirty hands.

I WISH I HAD a mother with whom I could spend next Sunday. I'd fly to the end of the earth to be with her. But mother has gone beyond my reach these many years. It had to happen to make me understand. It seemed to me that mother would always be.

I thought through life that I did everything I could for mother, that there was nothing she could want. How wrong I was. I had to feel the pang myself to know that the thing she wanted most I failed to give as much as I might. She wanted me.

I was busy, had many things to do. I had a family of my own. I couldn't spend much time with mother. What a fool I was. I found time for clubs, for trips, for friends who have betrayed me. I found time to earn dollars with which I sought to repay mother with comfort and plenty.

Plenty, yes; but comfort, no; for the comfort mother most sought was the chance to be with me.

"Come up to supper tonight," she'd phone.

"I'm sorry, mother. I can't. I've got to go to a dinner—so and so," I'd say.

"Oh, I'm so disappointed," she'd reply. "I bought oysters and was going to make a stew the way you and pop liked it—hope you have a good time."

TODAY, WHEN IT'S too late I'd forego a feast with kings to sit at the red-spread kitchen table in the little house she always kept; take off my coat, crush crackers in the stew—and visit with my mother.

Oh, you for whom it is not too late, stop thinking that you can repay your mother with security and ease. Find out in time that what mother wants is you. She wants it most of anything in the world.

One does not need wealth with which to repay mother. Just give her more of that time you sperd with others. Remember her on Mother's Day, of course; then remember her every day. Be with her all you can and you'll best repay the debt you owe to mother.

The Kefauver Report

By Raymond Moley

IT WOULD be very easy to comment on the excellent report of Senator Kefauver's committee in cynical terms. Its wealth of detail and its many conclusions and recommendations are not new material The patterns of crime change very little, and the remedies are obvious

But this report and the investigation which preceded it were valuable contributions to the public interest. It is well to have these activities, of which most of us are well aware, spread out in detail with names, dates, and places. The presence in this enlightened and wealtny country of an illicit industry with profits of billions and peopled by unprincipled scoundrels is a disgraceful reflection upon all of us. If this broad land were poor and illiterate, we might expect it to be infested with lawless bands of thieves and murderers. That is what uncivilized countries have had, and no wonder.

MOLEY

But here we are, rich enough to spend billions on government, on education, and law enforcement; enlightened enough to have the feeling of holding the torch in a dark world; strong enough to conquer continents and seas; a nation of essentially decent, kindly people—here we are, living cheek by jowl with a larvenous crew of mobsters and corruptionists.

* * *

THESE PEOPLE bribe and outwit the people we put in office to protect us: take our money with tricks and toys that we know are crooked; live unashamed in our hotels; hang around our public offices, legislatures and courts; boss the people who control elections. From what the report says, a good many shady characters found it easier to see Bill O'Dwyer, Mayor of New York,

Congress Quiz

Q—How much are federal judges paid and what's behind the move to raise their pay?

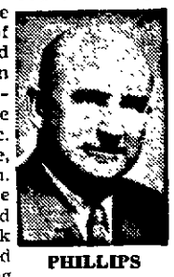
A—Salaries vary from the $15,000 annually paid district, customs and tax court judges to $25,000 for the chief justice of the Supreme Court. Bills before the Congress would increase their pay, boosting district judges, for example, to about $20,000. A House judiciary subcommittee was told May 2—by a former federal judge — that salaries aren't high enough to attract competent lawyers.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Now It Can Be Told

A belated report on the Kentucky Derby, but one worth waiting for, was made today by Shudda Haddim, the well-known $2 bettor, who arrived home this morning, having had to walk most of the way from Louisville, a routine to which he is accustomed. "My dogs ain't what they once were, and besides, I was delayed gettin' through the fog of alibis thrown up by all them turf experts," he explained. "Will I ever lay off 'em! Sure I pick Count Turf myself. Any way you take him he shapes up better than most of the beetles entered. His old man and his grandfather won the Derby. His breeding is perfect. Last year he won the Youthful Stakes, a top classic. He already beat the favorite, Battle Morn, once this season. The day before the Derby he works a half in close to record time. Every day for a week his fast workouts are printed in heavy type in the racing sheets. And not a racing expert picks him even to be in the money!



PHILLIPS

"But I make up my mind to play him just the same," he went on.

"You did so, of course?" we asked.

"Naw. When I go over all the experts Derby mornin' and not one gives him a chance I think they must know sumpin. So I lay off. And all on top of a wonnerful hunch, too."

"What was the hunch?" we asked.

"It begins with Uncle Miltie," he said. "When he is touted as the Derby sure thing weeks before the heat there is a awful howl from the highbrows of turfdom on account of they do not think the name Uncle Miltie would look right on a list of Derby winners. It is too suggestive of Broadway and show business. Also it is a sort of advertisement for an actor. Well, the smart set puts a hex on Miltie and he is kept in the barn. Here is where Fate steps in. Fate is having fun these days. So it says, 'Let's cross 'em up. The biggies couldn't stand the chance of Uncle Miltie among the list of Derby immortals. So let's have the Derby won by sumpin so completely Broadway it could be right out of Damon Runyon.' Get me? And that's what happen. Jack Amiel, a saloon and restaurant man from the heart of Broadway, a self-made man who once sold peanuts at ball parks, takes home the Derby cup and the roses with Count Turf, the last name of which is taken right off his saloon sign! Fate has the laugh of its life when it hears the pillars of the racing game singing 'My Old Kentucky Home' at the top of their voices. It knows that in a few minutes the tune will be 'Give My Regards to Broadway'."

"It certainly worked out that way," we admitted.

"They was afraid Uncle Miltie as a Derby winner would have too many advertising qualities," said Shudda Haddim. "And what happened? The winner turns out to be the best ad Broadway has had in years, with special emphasis on the bar and grill trade."

"Too bad you didn't stick to your hunch," we observed.

"Yeah. But wait til next year. I hear there will be a thoroughbred entered from Lindy's and nothin' will get me off."

Shudda Haddim said the whole global trend should have pointed to the result. "The rich don't get the breaks no more," he said. "That puts the Whitneys and all them other biggies out of it. There's a swing to the left, even in horse racin'. High society gets nuthin. It's a new era. A saloon keeper and restaurant man and former ballpark vendor is a natural to come through in a big way these days. Whitney, Vanderbilt, Stotesbury my eye! I tell ya Count Tough was a cinch all the time."

"Count Turf, not Count Tough," we corrected.

"Tough to me!" snapped Shudda Haddim.

Marion County History Brevities

The first cabin erected on the present site of Caledonia was on the west bank of the Whetstone, a short distance east of where the old depot stood. This, however, was before Caledonia was thought of as a town. In 1830 John Parcel purchased of Daniel Wyatt, the original proprietor from the government, the land upon which Caledonia was originally laid out, and upon which a portion of it is now built, at a cost of $145 for 40 acres. He at once cleared a few acres of the northern portion of the land, and a year or two later opened a country store.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

THERE'S no feud like an old feud. Even President Truman's best friends will tell him soon they don't believe this nation will be ready for all-out war by 1953, despite what he predicted in his latest speech.

The challenge will be thrown at him carefully, and respectfully, but bluntly — the next time he sits in on a meeting of his top civilian advisers. And the warning will come from the country's labor leaders who'll blame mobilizer-chief Charles E. Wilson for what they consider a bogged down defense effort.

Victor Riesel

So will start a new battle among the quick-tempered higher-ups now brain-trusting our war production speed-up. In effect what the labor leaders plan to tell the President, right in Charlie Wilson's presence, will sound something like this:

"We don't think we're moving fast enough. We don't feel that Wilson is right in advising you that we'll be set for M Day by mid-1953.

"We see only a paper emergency. We don't see any impact of defense orders on the factories. In fact, people are being laid off—and are worrying about their jobs. You may be letting out five billion dollars worth of contracts, but there's no urgency. Producers aren't being pushed. You're not moving fast. And you won't be able to move fast. And we feel that there must be sharp acceleration. We're either in a war, or not.

"WE DISAGREE WITH Wilson. We think you can't build a war economy alongside a civilian economy and still freeze our people's wages. You're imposing controls for the sake of controls. We want more information on the progress of our defense program. Where are the orders—the real orders, not the ones on paper? Our people down in the factories tell us they can't see the defense effort except in the papers."

In this fashion did one of the few men who make national labor policy talk in his private office this week. And he predicted a bitter brawl.

To bolster their charges, the labor leaders will point to the situation at the Ford Motor Co. The C.I.O. leader there, Carl Stellato, reports that "many" of his followers are being laid off because the high cost of living has cut into purchases of luxury goods and automobiles, and these goods are piling up as sales go off.

AT THE SAME TIME, word comes of new Ford war contracts for a special airplane machine which injects fuel into Wright aircraft engines used by our biggest bombers capable of swinging around the earth with atom bombs in their gut. And the new production will use 3,000 men. But, the labor leaders will point out, these fuel injection systems will be rolled out in a new plant—for which the real estate has not yet been picked.

Then the labor men will charge that the situation is the same in scores of war contracts for tanks, planes, special mortars, and other war equipment—for much of which there isn't even a pilot model. And the feud between labor and Wilson will pivot over one issue:

Shall old plants be reconverted for immediate war production which would wipe out the automobile, refrigerator and television lines, or shall special auxiliary plants be built for war orders—thereby throwing delivery dates to mid-1953. Especially at a moment when most civilian goods are piling up in a buyers' boycott.

HOWEVER, IT would be unlike Mr. Wilson to sit by quietly. He'll cuss them out—and charge directly, or through his industrial colleagues, that the labor leaders just don't understand the problems of mass production. This is an engineers' war at the moment, not a production war.

Planning takes time. It's cheaper and faster to set up a new plant than revamp an old one, Wilson's protagonists will say. But once we start rolling—no country will beat us. And our stuff will be newer, more deadly, and vast.

So the fight will go—for there's no feud like an old feud.

Mother's Romance

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

ONE OF the things that interests children most about their parents' courtship days came to be married.

When mother and her five children were all young together, we used to sit around the kitchen table on winter afternoons and drink tea and eat bread and butter—and get mama to tell the story of her life.

What we wanted most to hear about was her two big romances. But you just couldn't start right out by asking her about them. Mama had to be in the right mood. So we'd give her the buildup.

HAL BOYLE

"Tell us about when you were a girl in Ireland, mama," we began craftily.

And mama would tell what it was like to be the oldest daughter in a family of ten—her mother dead—on a poor farm in County Mayo.

"It seems like all I have done since I was born is to raise children," she mused, reaching out absent-mindedly to wipe the nearest runny nose.

We signed over her care-filled childhood, and asked:

"Mama, tell us about how you came to America."

SO SHE'D POUR SOME more tea and tell about her long voyage over—as what they used to call the steerage. She was still in her teens, and got dreadfully seasick—and cried with joy when she first saw the Statue of Liberty. That always made us feel like crying, too. And to this day whenever I see the Statue of Liberty I never think of it as just a statue—I see it as mama, a young girl against the world.

"Now tell us about going to Philadelphia and meeting the nickel miser," we'd demand.

Then—and mama, pretending to be annoyed—

"You know—the nickel miser."

"Well, I stayed in Philadelphia for a while—and a young man began calling on me," said mama. "I suppose he was my first beau. He was very thrifty. He used to take me to the amusement park. He would just buy me a big nickel ice cream cone, and we'd just walk around for a while and then go home. No, he never sent me any flowers or chocolates."

WE ALL AGREED he was a real cheapskate. And we pictured him as a cadaverous man with an evil leering face who wore a dirty straw hat and kicked little dogs.

"If you'd married him, we'd have an ole nickel miser for a daddy," one of us would say, feeling life had been lucky to us.

"Well, some of you would," mama would say, breaking into a laugh. "But as I told you, he was a very thrifty young man."

Then her children would exchange looks of wonder, trying to think what the world would be like with some of us not there.

And then the best part of the story, much better than the tale of Cinderella because it was all so true.

"No tell us how you came to Kansas City and met dad!"

"WELL, COUSIN BRIDGET invited me to come and stay with her," said mama. "One day a boy came to the back door delivering groceries, and the first thing he said when he saw me was, 'Hello, Cutie.' I thought he was awful fresh, and told him so.

"After that he started calling me 'greenhorn'—that's what they used to call anyone who'd just come over from Ireland. He was a gawky boy, but he had a nice smile. One afternoon he came into the kitchen and was helping me take the groceries out of the box, and suddenly he leaned over and kissed me."

Mama would blush then and one of the kids would say:

"I guess you were so pretty then, mom, he just couldn't help himself."

"Well, I wasn't so mad about it afterward," mama said. "Now, enough of this nonsense. You children go out and play with your sled. I've got to clean up this kitchen."

AND OUT INTO the snow we went, stirred by the knowledge that Cleopatra had nothing on our mom—and glad indeed that she had picked our dad instead of the skinflint nickel miser in Philadelphia.

I hope that in telling this Mother's Day kitchen tale of long ago that mama won't mind if I give the postscript to her romance. When it came time for her ex-grocery boy to die some years ago, his mind wandered back to the days of their courtship.

"I've got a girl," he sighed contentedly, "and her name is Margaret," and shortly thereafter he went to sleep.

Dad always called mama Margaret. He thought it was a lovely name.

Rose, Parsons Set For Test Runs

INDIANAPOLIS, May 12—(AP)—Nearly a dozen drivers pinned their hopes on a forecast of fair and warmer weather today and got ready to go for the pole position in the 500-mile auto race May 30.

First time trials for the big race were scheduled to start at 11:30 a.m. (CDT) at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, weather permitting.

Fastest car qualifying on opening day gets the pole position spot in the first row. Sixty-nine cars are entered for 33 places in the starting field.

Former winner Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., and defending champion Johnny Parsons of Van Nuys, Calif., were among those ready to go. Rose was in a car he drove last year, but Parsons had a different car with a new Meyer-Drake engine.

Jail Sheriff For Favoring Prisoner

CHARDON, O., May 12—(AP)—The sheriff of Geauga County was arrested today and charged on 72 counts for allowing a gambler to lead a comfortable life in his jail.

The grand jury indictment was served on Sheriff Stuart M. Harland. He said he had been "expecting this."

The indictment, served by Court Clerk Donald E. Philips, contained three charges.

In it, the sheriff was accused of allowing George Gordon, manager of the defunct gambling casino, Pettibone Club, various types of special privileges while serving a 60-day term in the sheriff's jail.

The warrant said Sheriff Harland let Gordon "go beyond the confines of his cell and use the jail phone" 215 times. He even allowed Gordon to eat a meal at his desk in the front office, the paper asserted.

There were three charges, each one carrying a maximum penalty of 20 days in jail and a $300 fine. The counts were high because of the number of telephone calls Gordon allegedly was allowed to make.

The charges were:

Allowing the jail to become unclean.

Failing to deal strictly with a prisoner.

Failing as an officer to deal strictly in a criminal case.

The grand jury returned its indictment secretly yesterday after an investigation of published reports that he had been "coddling" Gordon.

Gordon has been released from jail.

Recently Common Pleas Judge William K. Thomas, appointed last year by Gov. Frank J. Lausche, posted a new set of rules governing the operation of the county jail.

Harland, who is 62, has served as Geauga sheriff for 10 years. He will be arraigned next week before Judge Thomas, where he will be permitted to post bond.

Tobacco

the committee had voted a $250,000,000 increase in alcoholic beverage taxes. Although no decisions were reached, there were tentative proposals to leave the cigarette tax where it is, or at the most raise it to 9 cents a package.

If any increase is voted, the battle over a differential for the cheaper brands is accepted as inevitable.

Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.) led a campaign for such a differential last session. He won an initial encounter over Doughton by a single vote, but suffered a reversal when the matter was reconsidered. Whether Boggs or someone else would take the lead next week was not clear today.

Also due for decision is a Treasury proposal for a $25,000,000 increase in the tax on cigars.

Beer, Liquor Hit

By voting to raise the rate on hard liquor from $9 a gallon to $10.50, on beer from $8 a barrel to $9, and by approving relatively light increases in the rates on wine, the committee yesterday ran its prospective tax increases above $5,700,000,000. The bulk of this would come from individuals (nearly $3,000,000,000) and corporations (approximately $2,000,000,000). President Truman has asked for an additional $10,000,000,000 in tax revenue this year.

people themselves and the U.N. consulted.

The British still feel bound by the 1943 Cairo Conference to return Formosa to China. To London, this logically means Red China. The British recognize the Peiping regime, not the Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek.

American policy, on the other hand, is dead set against giving the islands to the Communists. Some officials believe a U.N. trusteeship might be the eventual way out.

B-29 Lands At Marion Airport

A new B-29 bomber landed Thursday at Marion Municipal Airport. It was the biggest plane ever to land and take off from the new airport.

It landed at 5:20 p.m. because of bad weather over Columbus. It was on a test flight for North American Aircraft and was manned by Air Force personnel with Capt. H. L. Swanagon and Capt. D. M. Gammage as pilot and co-pilot. Two first lieutenants and four sergeants completed the crew.

The plane took only half the runway for a landing and only a third for takeoff, airport officials said. The airport ramp is so large that with the B-29 parked on it the regular Trans World Airlines planes were served on the ramp without crowding. It left at 6:45 p.m.

Patrol Lists 2 Accidents

Two traffic accidents and two traffic arrests were reported today by the state highway patrol.

A car driven by Glenn Bennett, 19, of Upper Sandusky ran out of control and struck a guard rail at Little Sandusky on Route 23 north of Marion, at 2 a.m. today. The left side of the car was considerably damaged but Bennett escaped injury.

An hour later a car driven by Delbert Lee Nickell, 27, of Mt. Gilead hit a utility pole along Route 4, four miles south of Marion. His car was damaged but he too escaped injury. Nickell told patrolmen the front hood of the car blew open, blocking his view and causing him to hit the utility pole.

Robert Spiegel, 24, of near Upper Sandusky was arrested at 12:55 p.m. yesterday on Route 23, north of Marion, and charged with speeding. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace L. C. Schoenberger at Upper Sandusky, he pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Mrs. Alice Anderson, 49, of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., was arrested on Route 23 north of Marion at 3 p.m. yesterday and charged with speeding. She posted a $25 bond in Marion Municipal Court for an appearance May 17 to answer the charge.

Mr. Crowley's disappearance was reported to the sheriff Thursday by his sister-in-law, Mrs. James Crowley of near Marion. He makes his home with his brother and sister-in-law.

He was unharmed and apparently on a short vacation.

Study New Gas Rates At Upper Sandusky

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY—A proposed new gas rate ordinance, presented by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., is being studied by members of the municipal council here. The first and second sections of the proposal, twenty cents per hundred cubic feet for the first 500 each month and six cents per hundred for the next 4500, are the same as the current ordinance.

The third and fourth sections, five and three quarters cents for the next 20,000 feet and five and one half for the next 25,000 are an increase over present rates of five and a half and five cents for the same amounts.

The proposal would also continue a minimum monthly charge of $1.00 and a late payment charge of five percent, but not less than ten cents for bills not paid within ten days.

The proposed ordinance is written for a period of five years. The old ordinance, recently expired was for six years. Earl Urich, local manager for the Ohio Fuel Gas Company, told councilmen the proposed increase would not affect 42 percent of the consumers in Upper Sandusky.

air spotters Saturday saw no sign of the large enemy groups seen Friday north of Chunchon.

He pointed out, however, that the same situation prevailed before the Reds launched their first spring offensive April 22.

"Two days before they hit us we saw quite a few of them," the officer said. "The day before they struck we couldn't find any. Then the attack came."

Even the same tell-tale fires preceded the first Red assault.

That drive came to a halt 10 days after it began. The Reds suffered 75,000 casualties.

Supreme Court Called "Bunch of Monkeys"

ATLANTA, May 12—(AP)—A Georgia politician called the United States Supreme Court "a bunch of monkeys" in debate on segregation here yesterday.

Roy Harris, Augusta political leader and member of the board of regents of the state university system, said he expects the courts to order Negroes admitted to southern colleges and universities. But he declared Georgia will have segregated schools regardless of decisions "by a bunch of monkeys on the United States Supreme Court."

Marshall

Washington's view of the Communist threat as global and said actions in Korea must not lose for the United States the allies. Mr. Truman said this country would "desperately need" in case of war with Russia.

3. Marshal' testified the National Security Council — the agency created to advise the President on meshing domestic, foreign and military policies—was not consulted before MacArthur was fired.

Cain suggested the law required consultation with the council, but Marshall denied that.

Actually, Mr. Truman's consultations included the chief members of the council although Marshall said the council was not formally consulted as an agency.

Members of the council include the President, the vice president, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board (then W. Stuart Symington).

All of these, with the exception of Vice President Barkley, have been identified as participants in discussions which preceded Mr. Truman's recall of MacArthur on April 11.

Others Not Consulted

Under Cain's questions, Marshall said also that the secretaries of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force were not consulted.

Cain called it "a great pity, if not tragedy," saying that if the civilian secretaries had sat in on the discussions they would have asked "pressing questions" about alternative courses that might have been followed.

The senator said that as he understood Marshall's testimony, "no civilian within the Department of Defense or the Department of the Army was consulted or had any influence in the dismissal of Gen. MacArthur."

"I am supposed to be the civilian Secretary of Defense," Marshall replied, although the five-star general added: "Out of my past I was a soldier."

Cain asked whether the chairmen of the Senate and House armed services committees were consulted in advance of the dismissal. Marshall said he did not know, but Senator Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate committee, spoke up to say he had no advance information.

Cain asked whether Marshall appreciated and understood "that the method you and others had in mind for removing Gen. MacArthur would destroy his usefulness as a national leader, within the administration in the continuing day of crisis."

Marshall said: "the serious considerations that were discussed within my recollection related to the immediate reactions that would flow from his relief, and which I think we had a correct estimate of and very particularly the reactions of his Army, which was the most important reaction of all to be considered. Beyond that, I do not think the discussion went."

Reads Message

Marshall read Mr. Truman's Jan. 13 message to MacArthur at yesterday's session of the Senate inquiry panel.

It is one of the major documents produced in the hearings since Marshall contends it shows MacArthur was advised of the thinking in Washington and the international political factors which, in the judgment of officials here, weighed against his proposals for bombing Manchurian bases and taking other moves against the Chinese Communists outside Korea.

Senator Cain (R-Wash.) pressed a line of questions about the circumstances of the dispatch of this message when the secretary of defense returned to the witness chair today—his sixth before the senators.

Cain asked whether Mr. Truman's message was sent on his own initiative or "primarily in response to one or more messages" in which MacArthur called for directions.

"I couldn't answer that specifically yes or no," Marshall said. "As I have repeated, there were a number of questions from General MacArthur along this general line. There were messages from the Chiefs of Staff which involved military factors and called to his notice political factors."

Cain said he had been informed the Jan. 13 message was sent in answer to a direct request by MacArthur for advice.

Not Mentioned

"If that is a fact, it has not thus far been mentioned in these hearings," the senator added.

Marshall said MacArthur sent several communications saying the entry of the Chinese Communists into the war "had changed the character of the war and it required a consideration of a change of policy on the highest government level."

Range Up to 12 Cents a Pound

Some Beef Prices Cut By New OPS Order

WASHINGTON, May 12—(AP)—The price control cleaver is lopping about 12 cents a pound off some chuck steaks and pot roasts, and five to six cents off rump roast.

The reductions, ordered last night by the Office of Price Stabilization, will show up in the dollars-and-cents ceiling prices on all beef which must be posted on meat counters Monday morning.

Although the new order was issued on the same day the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported a three percent drop in livestock prices during the week ended May 8, it had no apparent connection with this development.

Amends Ceiling

Nor was there a connection with the projected general roll-back which is scheduled to reduce all beef prices by about 10 cents a pound by next Oct. 1. The new order simply amends ceiling regulations to allow for "inequities" and to provide other adjustments in an order issued April 29.

This directed retail dealers to post controlled ceiling prices by May 14.

Here is what the new order does:

It sets the same price for sirloin and pot roasts of the varieties known as chuck arm and chuck blade, bone in.

Arm chucks were about 12 cents a pound higher than chuck blades in the original April 29 beef order. On Monday, the ceiling price on choice and good grade rump roasts, bone in, will bring the butcher shop price down from 84 cents a pound to a new 79 cents. OPS officials said the price of choice and good boneless rump remains at $1.12 a pound.

The OPS postponed the effective date of retail kosher beef price ceilings from next Monday to May 21.

Wholesale Prices Down

Wholesale prices in general declined for the second week in a row during the week ended May 8, largely because of the 3.0 percent drop in livestock prices. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday an index of 182.9 percent of the 1926 average was a decline of 0.3 percent from the preceding week.

Stendel Leads Marsox With .556 Average

Led by husky Marv Stendel's .556 batting average Marion's Red Sox will open a three-game series here at Lincoln Park tonight against league-leading Springfield. All Ohio-Indiana League games were rained out last night.

The Marsox will play a single contest tonight and a doubleheader tomorrow. First game will start at 2 p.m. tomorrow and the second contest at 7:45. Tickets will be good for only one game.

Manager Elmer Yoter expects to use two pitchers, Bob Marciniec, Rick Tarys, Bob Penny, or Pete Scott in the series. Of this group Marciniec and Tarys have been the most effective.

Heavy Hitter

Stendel is currently leading the O-I Loop in batting with a .556 average in 11 games he has come through with 20 hits in 36 times at bat, including six doubles and three homeruns. He also has driven in 17 runs.

A converted outfielder, Stendel has done a creditable job in switching to the first base position since Yoter found himself without a seasoned player at the position in spring training.

Another Marsox batter finding O-I League hurling easy is Jim "Rush" Evanik, who is hitting well over .400. Ed Sandowski, catcher, and John Andrews, leftfielder, are other hitters over the .300 mark.

Andy Gilbert's Giants are on top of the heap with an 8-2 record for the early season.

St. Paul, paced by Jack Cassini's bases-loaded home run, trounced Louisville, 12-5, and Indianapolis whipped Minneapolis 17-11, in other games.

"I don't pick anybody to beat the White Sox." Thats how Paul Richards, manager of the Chicago White Sox, sized up the American League race opening day.

So far he's right.

Richards was firmly behind last winter's trade that sent starting pitchers Ray Scarborough and Bill Wight to the Boston Red Sox for outfielder Al Zarilla and Pitchers Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield.

"There goes the pennant," groaned the rival American League clubs. So far, Richards has come out on top in that deal.

Zarilla plugged a gap in right-field and today is tied for the league lead with 18 runs batted in.

Joe Dobson

Dobson failed to impress until last night when he missed turning in the second no-hit no-run game of the season. Scarborough has only one victory to show and Wight has failed to crash the winner's circle, losing three decisions.

Dobson, 34-year-old right-hander, pitched the Sox into a third-place tie with Cleveland by beating the Indians, 12-1, before 17,138 fans at Comiskey Park.

Dobson had a no-hitter until the eighth inning when pinch-hitter Bob Avila broke the spell with a two-out double. The Indians scored in the ninth on two walks and an error on a potential double play ball.

The sox hammered Early Wynn, Steve Gromek and George Zuverink for 14 hits, wrapping up the decision with a seven-run spree in the seventh off Gromek. Ed Robinson, former Indian, featured the explosion with a two-run homer. Orestes Minoso drove in two runs on three hits.

Dobson's feat was the third one-hitter of the season. Con Marrero of Washington performed the trick against Philadelphia last month and Sal Maglie of the New York Giants did it against Pittsburgh last week. Cliff Chambers of Pittsburgh pitched a no-hit-no-run victory over Boston last Sunday.

Dizzy Trout turned in his first victory of the season as the Detroit Tigers humbled the Browns, 7-1, under the lights at St. Louis.

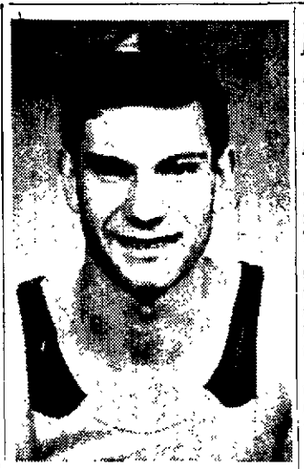
Trout scattered four St. Louis hits, fanned seven and walked three. Vic Wertz led the Tiger attack, driving in four runs, three on a home run in the seventh inning.

The Chicago Cubs treated Chambers like a semi-pro pitcher as they pounded the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-4, in the only game played in the National League.

Chambers, making his first start since his no-hitter, yielded three runs on four hits in two innings. The Cubs continued their assault against four relief pitchers, piling up 14 hits.

Andy Pafko paced the Chicago drive, banging out his seventh and eighth home runs. Pafko also upped his runs batted in to 22, tops in the majors.

Bob Rush breezed to his second victory. Rush, who chipped in with a double and two singles, scattered 11 Pittsburgh hits including Wally Westlake's sixth homer.



LOSES NO-HITTER. Bud England, above, rates as the No. 1 hard luck pitcher in Marion softball after losing a no-hitter against the Post Office nine Wednesday night. England's team, General Alloy lost, 1-0. He pitches for Smitty's All-Stars in the Commercial League. England also was a standout basketball player in the Y.M. C.A. league the past season.

PRO GRIDDERS SIGN

LOS ANGELES, May 12—(AP)—Rookie Linesmen Bill Lange from Dayton University and Sam Nevills, formerly of Purdue and Oregon, have signed their contracts to play for the Los Angeles Rams in the National Football League. Lange, a 235-pound guard, reported to the Rams last year but practice injuries sent him to the sidelines before the season began.

Reds Look To Big Ted For Hitting

CINCINNATI, May 12—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds' pitchers are finally coming through. Now it's Ted Kluszewski's turn.

The talk about Cincinnati's team during spring training centered around two factors: a potentially overpowering staff of hurlers and Theodore's big, beautiful bat.

Cincinnati pitching didn't live up to expectations at first, but now seems to be gaining momentum.

"When will Kluszewski start hitting?" Is the question now.

Most any day, the big guy is expected to start on one of his celebrated hitting streaks. When he's not hitting he looks awfully foolish and will swing his bat like a golf club or a tennis racquet. When he's on a hit spree he can swipe at pitches over his head and belt them for home runs.

The experts weren't talking with tongue in cheek when they predicted a possible National League batting crown for the broad - shouldered ex - football player. Right now, big Klu is far overdue.

The Reds may be a bit overconfident, especially for a cellar club, but they think they'll be able to beat the St. Louis Cardinals in both games today.

Cartier Awarded Split Decision Over Hairston

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—"No guts, eh" So I can't take it? I showed 'em. I showed 'em. I had to do it. I knew I could. I had to win this one if it was the last thing I ever did."

Walter Cartier was talking, stretched on a table in his dressing room. He had just beaten Eugene (Silent) Hairston on a split 10-round decision after being knocked down twice for nine in the first two rounds.

At the end of the brawl, Hairston was down for an eight-count He was just trying to get up when the last bell rang. That knockdown and three rounds taken away from Hairston on fouls gave Cartier the nod in the first Madison Square Garden fight since the circus left.

When Cartier withdrew from a December date with Hairston they said he was running out questioned his courage. But he wound up in the hospital with pneumonia. This was his first comeback start. He had beaten Hairston back in 1949 but the silent one had improved vastly since.

"Now I want Ray Robinson for the title," he spouted.

"Take it easy, Walt," said brother Vincent, a lawyer. "Anybody but Robinson."

"Not anybody but," said Carter. "I want Robinson."

"He's just a baby," said his manager, Irving (butter won't melt in his mouth) Cohen.

Although Cartier was sliced over the right eye and cut on the left ear, Cohen says he'll be ready by June 8. Irving hopes to land a Garden date with Rocky Castellani, who knocked out Cartier in 1948.

The Hairston camp was upset by the decision. Referee Mark Conn voted for the Negro deaf-mute from the Bronx, 5-4-1. Judge Harold Barnes found for Cartier 5-4-1 and Judge Bill Healy 6-4 the same way. The AP agreed with Barnes. Conn took three rounds away from Hairston for low blows.

Rain, Rain Go Away

Local Golfers Hope For Break From Weather

Inclement weather continued to keep local golfers away from the courses this week as little links activities took place.

Jack Stoddard, Marion Country Club pro, said today he expected a large number of golfers to tour the course this weekend if this morning's sunshine continued.

Twelve golfers had reported to the Mar-O-Del course at 9:30 this morning and a steady stream was expected during the weekend. Both courses are in tip-top shape for any stampede of linksmen which might occur.

Several persons have toured the course this week but no particularly low scores were turned in. Mar-O-Del already has attracted golfers from Delaware, Columbus and one Chicago resident toured the course twice this week. All out-of-town players were amazed at the condition of the greens and fairways.

Stoddard said the ladies' clinic which started two weeks ago was rained out this week. He reported 17 women had reported for the first session of the clinic and more were expected as the season progressed. The men's tourneys are set to open at the Country Club next Saturday. Actual tourney dates have not been set at the Mar-O-Del course but are planned to open in the near future.

Gallery Favors Ferrier in $15,000 Greenbrier Open

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 12—(AP)—"This $15,000 won't be credited to Jim Ferrier in the P.G.A. list of leading money winners, will it?" asked a spectator at the Greenbrier Open.

"No, but he can spend it just the same," replied a friend.

The 72-hole tourney is only half over but the gallery already is spending the prize money for Ferrier of San Francisco.

The winner of three winter tournaments with second place links earnings of $11,254 enjoys a lead of three strokes going into the third round today.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

Suspense Drama Opens At Palace Sunday

"The Thing," an amazing story of a terrifying visitor from the sky and hailed as one of the most suspenseful pictures ever made, will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace Theater. In prominent roles are Kenneth Tobey, Margaret Sheridan, Dewey Martin, James Arness, James Young, Edward Franz and Douglas Spencer.

The thrilling picture has its locale near the North Pole, at a base where a group of American scientists are investigating Arctic phenomena. When a mysterious space-ship crashes near by, the scientists radio the Air Force field at Anchorage, Alaska, and a group of Army fliers arrive on the scene.

The space-ship is accidentally destroyed, but one of its "crew" is rescued and taken to the base. Thrilling developments which follow take the form of conflict between the scientific group who wish to study the fearsome "thing" and the Air Force captain who realizes it poses a terrible threat to all civilization and wants to destroy it while there is yet time.

"Joan of Arc," the technicolor production starring Ingrid Bergman as the immortal heroine of France, has been billed for Wednesday and Thursday, to be shown at regular prices. The supporting cast includes Jose Ferrer, Francis L. Sullivan and J. Carrol Naish and many others.

The drama tells the story of the peasant girl of Domremy who sets out in a crusade to save France from her enemies. Her determined efforts to persuade the weak and treacherous "Dauphin" to give her command of the army, her victory over the English at Orleans, and the coronation of "Dauphin," her betrayal and trial for heresy, are all portrayed as a prelude to Joan's death at the stake in the market place of Rouen.

A double feature will play Friday and Saturday. The films will be "Tarzan's Peril" starring Lex Barker and Virginia Huston, and "The Company She Keeps" starring Lizabeth Scott, Jane Greer and Dennis O'Keefe.

The plot in the former centers around Tarzan's efforts to break up an attack by the figiting Yorango tribe on the peaceful Ashubas in British East Africa. "The Company She Keeps" deals with the problems of a girl on parole from a California prison. When she falls in love with a boy friend of her parole officer, complications arise. A parolee cannot marry without special permission.

Starting next Sunday will be the technicolor romantic drama, "Valentino," telling of the loves and times of Rudolph Valentino. The stars are Eleanor Parker and Anthony Dexter.

BARBARA BEL GEDDES and Richard Basehart are two of the stars of the dramatic production, "Fourteen Hours," which now is playing through Wednesday at the New Ohio Theater, including a midnight show tonight.

Technicolor Western Billed at State

A technicolor western adventure, "Dallas" starring Gary Cooper and Ruth Roman, and "The Vanishing Westerner" with Monte Hale, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "San Quentin" and "Mrs. Mike." The former stars Humphrey Bogart and Pat O'Brien, and heading the cast in the latter are Dick Powell and Evelyn Keyes.

Viveca Lindfors and Kent Smith are the stars of the film, "This Side of the Law," which will be the main attraction of a double feature playing Thursday through Saturday. Completing the billing will be "Hands Across the Rockies" with "Wild" Bill Elliott.

"Soldiers Three" On Marion Drive-In Bill

Highlighting the billings next week at the Marion Drive-In Theater north of the city will be a first run feature, the film adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's "Soldiers Three," starring Walter Pidgeon, Stewart Granger, David Niven and Robert Newton.

It will play Wednesday through Saturday, marking the first time in the history of the theater that a first run feature film has been shown. Plans are under way for other first run features to be shown at the drive-in theater in the future.

Playing Sunday through Tuesday at the Marion Drive-in will be the romantic comedy, "Grounds For Marriage" starring Van Johnson and Kathryn Grayson with Paula Raymond and Barry Sullivan.

The picture tells the amusing story of a doctor torn between his ex-wife and his current fiancee. Complications arise when the doctor's ex-wife, determined to win him back, becomes his patient.

"Soldiers Three" relates the adventure story of three fun-loving soldiers and their officers in the Rutlandshire Infantry of His Majesty's Army in India in the 1890's, who can't stay out of trouble even if they have to prove themselves heroes in the attempt.

"Rogue River" To Be Shown at South Drive-In

"Rogue River," a Cinecolor drama starring Rory Calhoun, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the South Drive-In Theater, located two and one-half miles south of Marion on U. S. route 23.

Filmed in the Rogue River country of southern Oregon, it tells a dramatic story of a conflict between father and son which comes to the point that it seems clear that it can only be resolved by the death of one of them.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday is the adaptation of the great Pulitzer Prize play, "Harvey" starring James Stewart, with Josephine Hull, Charles Drake, Jessie White, Cecil Kellaway, Wallace Ford and Peggy Dow.

The story concerns kind-hearted Elwood P. Dowd whose dreamy, view of life enables him to "see" and converse with a six-foot tall rabbit. When relatives and friends attempt to have Elwood committed to a mental institution, "Harvey" really comes into his own.

Showing Thursday through Saturday will be "The Jackie Robinson Story."

East Side Kids Star In Films at Marion

"Follow the Leader" starring the East Side Kids, made up of Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall, Gabriel Dell and Billy Benedict, and "Million Dollar Kid," also starring the East Side Kids, will open in a midnight show tonight at the Marion Theater and continue through Monday.

The former picture finds the East Side Kids conducting a private investigation into a series of warehouse robberies for which one of their gang has been unjustly accused and jailed. Gorcey and Hall of the gang, experience many a close brush with disaster at the hands of Jack LaRue, who portrays a nightclub operator who heads a gang of thieves on the side.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Stars In My Crown" starring Joel McCrea with Ellen Drew and Dean Stockwell, and "Mrs. O'Malley and Mr. Malone."

In "Stars In My Crown," Joel McCrea enacts Josiah Gray, ex-cavalryman who comes to the little village of Walesburg, inspires the community to build its first church, marries the pretty organist, and becomes a second father to their little ward, John. His courage and honesty leads the way in making the community a better place in which to live.

"Raiders of Tomahawk Creek" starring Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette, will be the main attraction of a double feature playing Thursday through Saturday. Completing the billing will be "Smugglers Gold."

In the former, Starrett and Smiley go on the warpath against bandit killers with a fortune in silver at stake.

"Fourteen Hours" Now Showing at New Ohio

"Fourteen Hours," dramatic thriller starring Paul Douglas, Richard Basehart, Barbara Bel Geddis and Debra Paget, and "the Admiral Was A Lady" starring Edmond O'Brien and Wanda Hendrix with Rudy Vallee, is a double feature now playing through Wednesday at the New Ohio Theater, including a midnight show tonight.

Photographed in the downtown financial district of New York, "Fourteen Hours" tells the nerve-tingling story of a confused young man who ventures out on to a precarious ledge on an upper story of a tall office building and holds the city at bay by day and night while he is entreated not to jump.

"The Admiral Was A Lady" concerns the hectic experiences of four ex-GI's as they try to keep an ex-Wave from leaving town in order to marry a hazy character named Henry.

Thursday through Saturday, another double feature will be shown, including "Red Light" starring George Raft and Virginia Mayo, and "When the Redskins Rode" starring Jon Hall and featuring Mary Castle, James Seay and John Ridgely.

The exciting story in "Red Light" revolves around Raft's efforts to discover the murderer of his brother, a priest recently returned from war duty in the Pacific, and to avenge his death at the hands of a mysterious gangster.

"When the Redskins Rode" tells the story of Honnoc, prince of the Delaware Indian Nation, who was introduced to Williamsburg, Va., society by Col. George Washington in the year 1753. Played by Jon Hall, Hannoc is admired by everyone in Williamsburg, but he gets special treatment from Mary Castle, who plies him with affection in the hope he will influence the Delawares to side with the French. However, all this doesn't stop Hannoc from accompanying Col. Washington on a peace mission and saving Washington and his men from an Indian ambush.

Opening in a midnight show next Saturday and playing through Wednesday will be a double feature, "They Got Me Covered" starring Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour, and "Up In Arms" with Danny Kaye.

The average motor car contains 45 pounds of copper, mostly in the radiator.

Actor To Play Daniel Webster, Honored Guest on Inaugural Trip

Erie To Observe Centennial With Re-enactment of Its First Run

Daniel Webster — surprisingly vigorous despite the passage of a full century since his last appearance—will play another two-day performance on the Erie Railroad next week

Webster will be played by an actor as part of the Erie's re-enactment, on May 14-15, of the Inaugural Excursion over its newly completed line in 1851.

"Ol Dan'l" was one of 300 guests inspecting the newly completed line from the Atlantic Ocean to the Great Lakes

He will come to life, seated on a flat car as he was a century ago, for the two-day trip between Piermont-on-Hudson and Dunkirk on Lake Erie

Along with "Webster," the Erie's re-enactment train will offer a contrast between old fashioned equipment used in 1851 and its most modern and comfortable rolling stock now operating along its 2 245 miles of railroad between New York and Chicago.

Old-Time Engine

The 'William Mason" a working old-time engine with baggage car and coach, will be part of the re-enactment train.

At the head-end will be one of the Erie's new "E-8' Diesel-electric locomotives, the latest word in power and efficiency. For the first part of the trip the re-enactment train will be made up exclusively of cabooses and the old-fashioned equipment

On May 14-15, 1851, the old "New York and Erie Railroad" opened its original 446-mile line. It was the longest railroad in the country, the first to connect two great sections of America as a carrier of passengers and general freight. At that time, its completion was hailed as a "milestone in history" and "the work of the age."

The re-enactment trip is planned to follow as closely as possible the 1851 schedule. Piermont, selected as the new railroad's eastern terminus because its original charter forbade construction outside New York State, could only be reached by boat.

Began With Voyage

The Inaugural Excursion, therefore, began with a voyage up the Hudson River on the new steamer "Erie." Once at Piermont, the distinguished party transferred to a special train.

Similar arrangements are being made for May 14 The re-enactment party will leave from the Erie's pier at Duane street by chartered steamer, although not quite so early in the morning as was the case a century ago

The 26-mile waterborne leg of the journey will consume about two hours, docking at Piermont Pier, the scene of bustling military activity during World War II. Once under way from Piermont, the train will make brief stops at Suffern, Port Jervis, Deposit, Susquehanna and Binghamton—stopping overnight at Elmira. The second days' schedule lists stops at Corning, Hornell and Salamanca before ending the journey at Dunkirk.

Special ceremonies will take place at each stop. Representing the Erie will be President Paul W Johnston and the board of directors. Local mayors have been invited to join the party as the the train stops at their cities.

1851 RAILROAD TRAVEL. Getting ready for Erie Railroad's re-enactment of its Inaugural Excursion on May 14-15, Conductor Joe Graham assists Misses Betsy Holt and Doris Jeritza from old-fashioned coach.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

I sent a side glance to my small daughter, who was wriggling in tense excitement, although she was keeping her promise not to speak. I knew that the eyes of Katharine and of my mother-in-law, who adore the little girl, were also watching her, and also knew that what I was going to say would meet with their approval.

"Well, Faith," I said, trying to make my voice casual. "How do you like this plan?"

She cocked her head cannily at me.

"Do you mean the mufflers are off now, and I can talk?" she asked, and from somewhere I got the grace to answer her without reproof, knowing that she simply was taking her vocabulary from that of the brother and the cousins whom she adores, and that I would have to put off until later the task of disciplining her diction.

"Not altogether off" I reminded her, "but you may tell us what you think about this plan to keep house up there"

She drew a long breath — she would need it, I told myself, remembering the conversational capabilities of my small daughter and then broke into enthusiastic speech

"I think it's the most scrumptious plan that anybody ever thought up," she said "and, of course, I know who did the thinking. You're the one that always comes up with all the answers. And will I ever work my fingers ends to the bone up there?—I got that one from Mrs. Tiger—she always says that when there's a big job to be done. I'll jump to attention when anybody speaks to me, I'll run my legs off on my errands, but, oh, Mummy, do you suppose I'll have a chance to cook just a teeny weeny bit up there" Katie showed me some dishes that I'm just dying to try, dishes she said she learned when she was a little girl like me back in Europe."

She ran down at last, literally out of breath, and I caught at mine to answer her.

"You'll have to ask Granzie and Aunt Katharine that question" I told her. "You know I'll be up there only occasionally, and will have nothing to do with things up there unless somebody gets sick."

"May I ask them now?" she queried anxiously, and I turned to my mother-in-law and to Katharine, who were trying to keep smiles from their lips.

"May she interview you about a position?" I queried, and Faith broke into a relieved giggle, mirth in which we were glad to join

"She certainly may," my mother-in-law said, wiping her eyes, and Katharine's accompanying "of course," was lighted by the loving smile which she always accords to Faith.

My small daughter, who is nothing if not dramatic, straightened her small figure, brought her head erect, and faced her grandmother and Katharine, fortunately seated close to each other, so that she could address both of them at once.

"I understand," she began grandly, "that there is a position open here, for a — trained — I mean more or less trained helper. If there is, I'd like to apply for the job."

My mother-in-law's eyes twinkled, but she kept her face composed, and "set her teeth into her role."

"Yes, there is a position open" she said, "but Mrs. Bickett is the person you must interview. She attends to all of the details."

Faith looked at Katharine appealingly.

"Do I have to go over that speech again?" she asked wistfully.

Anti-Bug Plans Set At Magnetic Springs

MAGNETIC SPRINGS, May 12 —Fogging operations to keep Magnetic Springs free from mosquitoes will be used again this year for the fourth successive year, Mayor Robert Eastgate announced.

The spraying is done once a month through September. The entire town is blanketed with DDT sprayed from a unit mounted on a jeep. First spraying of the season will be made as soon as feasible.

The cost of $100 per month is paid through donations from the townspeople and businessmen, as there is no levy for such operating expenses.

than did the principals of schools where our children are taught morals and good government.

Over the nation there is plenty of money to buy votes by handouts, but not enough to stop illegal interstate trade in crooked gambling devices. The Federal Government has found power and time to harass many businesses, but it hasn't been able to prevent a telegraph company from acting as a medium of communication for illegal betting. The government squeezes that last cent of taxes from honest people, but huge sums in cash handled by racketeers are not reflected in the income tax returns."

A responsibility falls upon the Federal Government to correct these Federal matters. The Kefauver report spells them out.

OUR WRETCHED law enforcement in many states is revealed. It is up to state legislatures and governors to bring law enforcements in the counties up to the standard of some of the good cities. That can be done by enlarging the powers and facilities of the state police systems and reducing sheriffs to the homely tasks of process servers and jail tenders.

It is now up to the press to take on some of its crusading zeal of old.

It is up to the profession of the bar to drive out of its ranks the lawyers whose present occupation is to keep these crooks out of trouble.

And it is up to public-spirited citizens in many cities to create crime commissions to watch and support law-enforcement officers. The Kefauver report is right in saying that "crime is largely a local problem."

Relax in our gay congenial atmosphere. Food, drinks, service are tops. They combine to give you the pleasantest evening ever.

New Power
OUT OF YOUR Old Engine!

If you're thinking of your Buick in terms of the long pull ahead — better drive it in to our shop and let us pull some of our famous motor-magic!

It might take only a new set of piston rings, or a valve-grinding and carbon removal, to give you hundreds of dollars' worth of fresh power and new fuel economy—at a fraction of that figure in cost!

Why not drive in this week, and talk over the possibilities with us?

Comics Called Safety Valve

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Newspaper comic strips are not a cause of delinquency, according to Prof. Dan Cole, Occidental College psychologist. They are rather like a safety valve for a child's suppressed emotions, Cole's opinion.

In the bright make-believe world of the funny papers, a child often finds the adventure, excitement and thrills denied him in the world of reality, Prof. Cole contends.

In this never-never land of the newspaper comic strip world all things are possible and all dreams come true, a child can live, says Dr. Cole. In it he can do what he wants to do and be the person he most wants to be. Cole completed a study of comic strips in relation to children's personalities.

The ideals comic-strip life often has more real meaning for him than the grim-dom frustrating life he may be living in reality, Cole believes.

Cole's study showed that each child instinctively reads the kind of comics that give him the life he wants and helps open the door of his personality in his imagination.

Comic strips are often the only safety valve a child has, Cole decided.

Touring Vandals Blast Street Lights

SALT LAKE CITY — (UP) — Young vandals in 'souped-up' hot-rods are giving Salt Lake police a new worry.

Numerous reports of touring vandals using 22-caliber rifles to blast street lights have been filed with the public safety department. As many as 25 street lights in scattered sections of the city have been darkened by the teen-age thrill-seekers.

Alfred P. Ball, street lighting foreman for the Utah Power & Light Company, said outer globes for street lights are in short supply and some of them may not be replaced during the current emergency. Some 50 street lights were without outer globes because of vandalism.

Skeezix's scheme was this — disposable wicker wastebaskets made of waste paper and the used wastebaskets. Sort of an "Isle of Cats" idea, Corky.
What was that, Pop?
A character decided to raise cat fur by stocking an island with cats. To feed the cats he imported rats
How did he feed the rats, Pop?
That was easy, Hope. He skinned the cats and the rats would eat the carcases. Continuous performance!
So the full wastebaskets come back to the factory, and that's raw material for more baskets. Skeezix is a genius!
